University of Pittsburgh School of Social Work at a Glance

EDUCATIONAL EXCELLENCE
Pitt’s School of Social Work is ranked 10th among graduate schools of social work by U.S. News & World Report.

COMMUNITY IMPACT
Students collectively provide more than 350,000 hours of field placement work to serve agencies and organizations. This work is worth more than $8.4 million annually.

More than 70 percent of students receive financial aid.

COMMITMENT TO DIVERSITY
Students of color make up 30 percent of the student body. More than 33 percent of full-time faculty members are faculty of color.

Center on Race and Social Problems

MORE THAN 130
LECTURES AND SUMMER INSTITUTES

MORE THAN 35
FUNDED PILOT STUDIES

8
TRIPS TO CUBA AS PART OF THE CUBAN RACE AND SOCIAL PROBLEMS COURSE

HOMEWOOD CHILDREN’S VILLAGE
The Homewood Children’s Village (HCV) was founded in 2008 by Professor John Wallace and Aliya Durham (MSW ’02). HCV partners with residents, local government, schools, philanthropic foundations, and faith- and community-based organizations to revitalize the neighborhood in hopes of making it a place where children can thrive.

HCV’s work extends beyond the streets of Homewood. Students from a local high school have the opportunity to take social work classes for college credit, while fellows from Pitt’s Center on Race and Social Problems serve in the schools.

Recently, Wallace has helped to lead the development of a greenhouse, a fishery, and entrepreneurship opportunities for residents.

70+% RECEIVE FINANCIAL AID

MORE THAN 130
LECTURES AND SUMMER INSTITUTES

MORE THAN 35
FUNDED PILOT STUDIES

8
TRIPS TO CUBA AS PART OF THE CUBAN RACE AND SOCIAL PROBLEMS COURSE

Center on Race and Social Problems
100 years ago, the School of Social Work at the University of Pittsburgh was founded. The School of Social Work is the oldest of its kind in the state of Pennsylvania and one of the oldest in the country. The school was established as a result of the vision and leadership of Dr. Mary E. Goodrich, a pioneering social worker and advocate for social justice. The school was founded to address the social problems of the time, including poverty, discrimination, and inequality.

Today, the School of Social Work continues to be a leader in social work education and research. The school is home to more than 2,000 students, including undergraduate, graduate, and doctoral students. The school offers a wide range of programs, including a Bachelor of Social Work, a Master of Social Work, and a PhD in Social Work. The school also offers a variety of professional development opportunities, including internships, fellowships, and continuing education programs.

The School of Social Work is committed to preparing social workers who are equipped to address the complex social problems of today. The school is dedicated to promoting social justice, diversity, and equity, and to supporting the development of socially responsible leaders. The school is proud to be a member of the University of Pittsburgh, a world-renowned research university with a long history of excellence in education and scholarship.

The School of Social Work is located in the historic Coconut Grove neighborhood of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. The school is home to a vibrant community of students, faculty, and staff who are dedicated to making a difference in the world.

The School of Social Work is proud to be a part of the University of Pittsburgh, a world-renowned research university with a long history of excellence in education and scholarship. The school is committed to preparing social workers who are equipped to address the complex social problems of today. The school is dedicated to promoting social justice, diversity, and equity, and to supporting the development of socially responsible leaders.
University of Pittsburgh School of Social Work
School of Social Work
3117 Cathedral of Learning
4200 Fifth Avenue
Pittsburgh, PA 15260
socialwork.pitt.edu

University of Pittsburgh School of Social Work at a Glance

EDUCATIONAL EXCELLENCE
Pitt’s School of Social Work is ranked 10th among graduate schools of social work by U.S. News & World Report.

COMMUNITY IMPACT
Students collectively provide more than 350,000 hours of field placement work to serve agencies and organizations. This work is worth more than $8.4 million annually.

More than 70 percent of students receive financial aid.

COMMITMENT TO DIVERSITY
Students of color make up 30 percent of the student body. More than 33 percent of full-time faculty members are faculty of color.

Center on Race and Social Problems
MORE THAN 130 LECTURES AND SUMMER INSTITUTES
MORE THAN 35 FUNDED PILOT STUDIES
8 TRIPS TO CUBA AS PART OF THE CUBAN RACE AND SOCIAL PROBLEMS COURSE

HOMESTOOD CHILDREN’S VILLAGE
The Homewood Children’s Village (HCV) was founded in 2008 by Professor John Wallace and Aliya Durham (MSW ’02). HCV partners with residents, local government, schools, philanthropic foundations, and faith- and community-based organizations to revitalize the neighborhood in hopes of making it a place where children can thrive.

HCV’s work extends beyond the streets of Homewood. Students from a local high school are provided with social work classes for college credit, while fellows from Pitt’s Center on Race and Social Problems serve in the schools. Recently, Wallace has helped to lead the development of a greenhouse, a fishery, and entrepreneurship opportunities for residents.

70+%
RECEIVE FINANCIAL AID
MORE THAN 130 LECTURES AND SUMMER INSTITUTES
MORE THAN 35 FUNDED PILOT STUDIES
8 TRIPS TO CUBA AS PART OF THE CUBAN RACE AND SOCIAL PROBLEMS COURSE

10TH IN THE UNITED STATES
350,000 HOURS OF FIELD WORK
70+% FINANCIAL AID
30% STUDENTS OF COLOR
33+% FACULTY OF COLOR

1st CENTER ON RACE IN AN AMERICAN SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK:
2nd LARGEST CHILD WELFARE PROGRAM IN THE NATION

FIND US ONLINE!
socialwork.pitt.edu

More than 130 lectures and summer institutes
More than 35 funded pilot studies
8 trips to Cuba as part of the Cuban Race and Social Problems course

University of Pittsburgh
School of Social Work
Celebrating 100 Years of People, Policy and Practice
Pitt’s School of Social Work Empowers People, Leads Organizations, and Grows Communities.

100 YEARS AGO, the School of Social Work at the University of Pittsburgh was founded to prepare students to be leaders and workers in the growing field of social work. Today, the School of Social Work at the University of Pittsburgh is the largest social work school in the nation and the second-largest child welfare education and research program in the world.

We’re thrilled to have you on board as a leader and colleague in this field that is at the threshold of such vital work. It is times like this that we stand in decades. It is times like this that we stand and make our voices heard. You, our faculty, alumni, academic leaders in social work like you are more critical than ever.

As educators, we have tremendous power over our students, and we are shaping them to enter a society that needs them more than ever. You will transform the lives of students who will go on to transform the world.

100TH ANNIVERSARY

For a century, the School of Social Work at the University of Pittsburgh has been a leader in the field of social work and social justice. Among its many programs, it has been a leader in the field of social work and social justice. Among its many programs.

The School of Social Work confronted the issues of poverty, child welfare, race, and ethnicity, and their influence on the quality of life of all Americans. CRSP focuses on research, publications, education, outreach, and events around criminal justice issues, poverty, health, mental health, and interpersonal violence.

CRSP recently hosted its second race and social problems conference, bringing together policy and law enforcement personnel with social service workers and community leaders. CRSP offers a unique neutral space for learning and discussion between law enforcement personnel and the community they serve in an effort to increase understanding and improve relationships between police and the broader community.

FeLioWshIP OPPortunitIes

The Center on Race and Social Problems’ Fellows Program is an interdisciplinary fellowship aimed at preparing students to be engaged leaders working to address economic and social justice.

COSA Celebrates 60 Years as First Community Organizing Program in the U.S.

As the School of Social Work celebrates its 100th anniversary, it is also celebrating its 60th year as one of the nation’s first and greatest community organizing programs.

Recent initiatives include an interdisciplinary training program that prepares students to be engaged leaders working to address economic and social justice.

The Center on Race and Social Problems’ Fellows Program is an interdisciplinary fellowship aimed at preparing students to be engaged leaders working to address economic and social justice.

The school offers 10 joint degree programs, including the School of Social Work’s Master of Business Administration program, designed to provide students with a unique combination of social work skills and business knowledge.

The school also offers a variety of fellowships in a variety of fields.

It offers a uniquely neutral space for learning and discussion between police and law enforcement personnel and the communities they serve in an effort to increase understanding and improve relationships between police and the broader community.

The second-largest child welfare education and research program in the world.

The Center on Race and Social Problems has been a leader in the field of social work and social justice. Among its many programs.

The school offers a variety of fellowships in a variety of fields.

It offers a uniquely neutral space for learning and discussion between police and law enforcement personnel and the communities they serve in an effort to increase understanding and improve relationships between police and the broader community.

The second-largest child welfare education and research program in the world.

The Center on Race and Social Problems has been a leader in the field of social work and social justice. Among its many programs.

The school offers a variety of fellowships in a variety of fields.

It offers a uniquely neutral space for learning and discussion between police and law enforcement personnel and the communities they serve in an effort to increase understanding and improve relationships between police and the broader community.

The second-largest child welfare education and research program in the world.

The Center on Race and Social Problems has been a leader in the field of social work and social justice. Among its many programs.

The school offers a variety of fellowships in a variety of fields.

It offers a uniquely neutral space for learning and discussion between police and law enforcement personnel and the communities they serve in an effort to increase understanding and improve relationships between police and the broader community.

The second-largest child welfare education and research program in the world.

The Center on Race and Social Problems has been a leader in the field of social work and social justice. Among its many programs.

The school offers a variety of fellowships in a variety of fields.

It offers a uniquely neutral space for learning and discussion between police and law enforcement personnel and the communities they serve in an effort to increase understanding and improve relationships between police and the broader community.

The second-largest child welfare education and research program in the world.

The Center on Race and Social Problems has been a leader in the field of social work and social justice. Among its many programs.

The school offers a variety of fellowships in a variety of fields.

It offers a uniquely neutral space for learning and discussion between police and law enforcement personnel and the communities they serve in an effort to increase understanding and improve relationships between police and the broader community.
100 years ago, the faculty of the University of Pittsburgh
School of Social Work launched a program to engage students in field work that would prepare them to make a difference in the lives of others. Since then, Pitt’s School of Social Work has continued to cultivate the impact of social work in all corners of the world, as students and faculty strive to “transform the lives of students who will go on to transform the world.”

Sincerely,

Larry E. Davis
Dean

100th ANNIVERSARY

You will find many Pitt alumni who will go on to transform
the world.

You will transform the lives of students who will go on to transform
the world.

Pitt Social Work Centennial Kickoff and Reception
Save the Date: October 10, 2017

NEW CENTER FOR INTERVENTIONS TO ENHANCE COMMUNITY HEALTH

The University of Pittsburgh School of Social Work and Department of Psychiatry will launch the Center for Interventions To Enhance Community Health in October 2017. This new center is a collaborative effort that brings together critically needed expertise in behavior, social science research on race, cultural competence, and the influence on the quality of life of all Americans. CICH focuses on research, publications, education, and stakeholder engagement to cultivate communities that are enriched by a diverse population with the skills to make positive change.

Center on Race and Social Problems

CRSP has been a leader in the field of social work and social justice and in bettering our society. The Center on Race and Social Problems works with educators, I am confident that we can continue to make real strides in the field—especially in advancing the education of the next generation of social work students. The Center is a key member of the CRSP family.

CHILD WELFARE EDUCATION AND RESEARCH PROGRAMS

The second largest child welfare
program in the country, Pitt’s Child Welfare
Education and Research Programs has been recognized for its influence on the field and its effective work in the field.

COSA Celebrates 60 Years as First Community Organizing Program in the U.S.

As the School of Social Work celebrates its 100th anniversary, it is also celebrating the 60th anniversary of the very first professional curriculum to train community organizers in the country. The community organizer programs at Pitt, the University of Chicago, and the University of California, Los Angeles, were the first programs to train organizers in the field. The programs have trained thousands of organizers and community leaders, and have provided a unique framework for understanding how to create social change and make a difference in the world.

Programs are available
in law, public administration, and departmental.

The James J. and Noel W. Browne Fellowship Program is an interdisciplinary fellowship award to prepare students to be engaged as civic leaders working to improve economic and social justice.

The second-largest child welfare
program in the country, Pitt’s Child Welfare
Education and Research Programs
has been recognized for its influence on the field and its effective work in the field.

CITH has been recognized for its influence on the quality of care for children and families, particularly in the area of child abuse and defense. The CITH program has been a leader in the field of integrated health care.
Students gain hands-on experience in teaching and providing interventions to children and families.

The Center on Race and Social Problems is one of the nation’s leading centers for research on social justice and race. CITH has completed extensive research on the impact of race and ethnicity on health outcomes, and has helped to shape public policy in the field.

The Center for Race and Social Problems has been a leader in the field of social work and social justice. The Center’s work has been recognized for its influence on the field and its effective work in the field.

COSA Celebrates 60 Years as First Community Organizing Program in the U.S.

As the School of Social Work celebrates its 100th anniversary, it is also celebrating the 60th anniversary of the very first professional curriculum to train community organizers in the country. The community organizer programs at Pitt, the University of Chicago, and the University of California, Los Angeles, were the first programs to train organizers in the field. The programs have trained thousands of organizers and community leaders, and
have provided a unique framework for understanding
how to create social change and make a difference
in the world.

Programs are available
in law, public administration, and
departmental.

The James J. and Noel W. Browne Fellowship Program is an interdisciplinary fellowship award to prepare students to be engaged as civic leaders working to improve economic and social justice.
University of Pittsburgh School of Social Work

School of Social Work
3171 Cathedral of Learning
4200 Fifth Avenue
Pittsburgh, PA 15260
socialwork.pitt.edu

EDUCATIONAL EXCELLENCE
Pitt’s School of Social Work is ranked 10th among graduate schools of social work by U.S. News & World Report.

COMMUNITY IMPACT
Students collectively provide more than 350,000 hours of field placement work to serve agencies and organizations. This work is worth more than $8.4 million annually.

More than 70 percent of students receive financial aid.

COMMITMENT TO DIVERSITY
Students of color make up 30 percent of the student body. More than 33 percent of full-time faculty members are faculty of color.

Center on Race and Social Problems

MORE THAN 130
LECTURES AND SUMMER INSTITUTES

MORE THAN 35
FUNDED PILOT STUDIES

8
TRIPS TO CUBA AS PART OF THE CUBAN RACE AND SOCIAL PROBLEMS COURSE

350,000
HOURS OF FIELD WORK

FACULTY OF COLOR
33+

STUDENTS OF COLOR
30%

70%+
FINANCIAL AID

10th
BEST SCHOOLS
IN THE UNITED STATES

University of Pittsburgh School of Social Work at a Glance

For more information, please visit socialwork.pitt.edu

THE HOMEWOOD CHILDREN’S VILLAGE

The Homewood Children’s Village (HCV) was founded in 2008 by Professor John Wallace and Aliya Durham (MSW ’02). HCV partners with residents, local government, schools, philanthropic foundations, and faith- and community-based organizations to revitalize the neighborhood in hopes of making it a place where children can thrive.

HCV’s work extends beyond the streets of Homewood. Students from a local high school have the opportunity to take social work classes for college credit, while fellows from Pitt’s Center on Race and Social Problems serve in the schools. Recently, Wallace has helped to lead the development of a greenhouse, a fishery, and entrepreneurship opportunities for residents.

70+
RECEIVE
FINANCIAL AID

More than 130 lectures and summer institutes

More than 35 funded pilot studies

8 trips to Cuba as part of the Cuban race and social problems course

8 trips to Cuba as part of the Cuban race and social problems course